Constar Launches New Website

Site reflects the excitement of the company's team, technologies, customer successes

PHILADELPHIA, June 29, 2009 - - For Constar, the timing could not have been better. The same day the packaging company successfully emerged from a planned reorganization—May 29, 2009—Constar launched a totally re-designed website that reflects the excitement of its team, its growing portfolio of PET barrier and hot fill technologies and customer successes.

Visitors to www.constar.net are greeted by a much more engaging home page with new areas of dynamic content and new information categories. The most dramatic change is a revolving flash animation showcasing Constar success stories including Fog Mountain Merlot in a one liter PET bottle, Hunts® Ketchup in PET bottles with DiamondClear®, AriZona Tea in hot fill PET bottles with Vertical Compensation Technology™, and ReaLemon® PET bottles with a unique brand-building design. New areas of dynamic content include Featured Technology, Sustainability, News, and Straight Talk from Constar CEO Mike Hoffman, a forum in which Hoffman will share his insights into Constar and the packaging world at large.

Hoffman says the goal of Constar's new website is to introduce current, and future, customers to the re-energized packaging company, its motivated team and its industry-leading technologies. "Packaging is a dynamic industry that is constantly changing and looking for new ways to attract consumers and build brand loyalty. People who are responsible for branding and packaging are always on the lookout for new resources that are capable, but also innovative and bring more to the table than stock solutions. Our new website is designed to speak to and connect with companies who want more from their relationships with packaging suppliers."

The main navigation bar includes links to Technologies, Design Services, Markets/Products, For Our Customers, and Investor Relations. The Technologies section showcases Constar's expertise in both barrier and hot fill technologies. The Design Services section was new to the site and details Constar's investments in its proprietary design and engineering tools, CONSTRUCT™ advanced predictive engineering software and i-Design™. I-Design is an automated package development software that dramatically reduces package development time: Projects that traditionally have taken as much as 40 hours of intense design by an experienced packaging engineer can now be done in a matter of minutes. Design and engineering services are a true point of differentiation for Constar.

The website has other user-friendly features. Current customers have access to helpful documents on Constar's policies. Investors can sign up for financial news updates. Job applicants can apply online. The Contact Us page actually includes people to contact rather than general emails and numbers, a rarity in today's corporate world. Google Map makes it easy for visitors to find Constar's Philadelphia headquarters. The website also has been search engine optimized to help those looking for specified PET bottle, container, and preform solutions find Constar.

The website was created by Lux Strategic Communications, a firm that has developed and implemented communications strategies for packaging companies for 15 years.

Suzanne Cohen, Constar's senior manager for Marketing Services, says the website will continue to evolve. "Websites are one of the most important point of entries to a company and certainly the most important marketing tool. We plan to give visitors plenty of reasons to come back again and again."
